

Abstract

A computing device maintains coherency while supporting addition and removal of memory caching agents without rebooting the computing device.

agents, devices, and systems that are used to provide a computing device with a memory caching agent. The agents, devices, and systems are used to provide a computing device with a memory caching agent. The agents, devices, and systems are used to provide a computing device with a memory caching agent.